Practical Skills for Chairing Effective Public Meetings

Great meetings don't happen by accident. Great chairs make a difference.

Whether you're newly elected, returning to office, or stepping into a leadership role on a board or commission, chairing a public meeting takes more than knowing the rules.

Join the Institute for Local Government (ILG) for a practical training designed to help you lead with confidence, navigate challenging moments, and keep meetings productive.

WHAT YOU'LL LEARN

Run the Meeting

Navigate agendas, procedures, and the responsibilities of the chair.

Manage the Room

Facilitate discussion, handle difficult moments, and keep conversations on track.

Lead with Confidence

Create a respectful, productive environment that supports good governance.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

New and experienced mayors, councilmembers, board and commission chairs, vice chairs, and other elected or appointed officials who lead public meetings.
